The '87ers

One of the most active students this year was Carl. Being conscientious and assertive yet at the same time modest and retiring, he remained very much a behind-the-scenes leader in a lot of the school's activities. Although sometimes (especially during his Senior year) his reckless temerity somehow did not befit his relative youth, he retained a pleasant condescending nature to complement his generally agreeable disposition. One of his biggest responsibilities was as Student Council Vice-President, showing his remarkable organization talents. His tremendous contribution to Soccer team was justified by his Tournament All-Star patch. His hectic schedule did not deter him from pursuing his interest in playing guitar, proving again that there is always time to make your presence felt everywhere and still remain lucid; even if that means writing your own description. . . .

The Senior Class could never be complete without that charming, irresistible character, Kengo. His carefree and playful approach to life was clearly exhibited by his ever-present smile, making those around him instantly happy. As amiable and humorous as he is, it's no small wonder that he is one of the most popular students in and out of school, especially with members of the opposite sex. Being naturally musically talented and photogenic, he made the perfect entertainer, relishing every moment on stage or in front of an audience or camera. Altruism and benevolence are traits which are clearly noticeable in his character, as he unselfishly helped his friends out when they were in a plight.

Ambitious and determined, yet at the same time polite and complaisant, Lenon was one of the precious few who earned the right to be called a St. Joseph's gentleman. One of his greatest assets was his relatively cool temperament and willingness to help anyone in trouble. Although overtly shy and conservative, he was one of the most spirited and enthusiastic students, and often surprised his teachers and fellow students with his frequent outbursts of hearty laughter. He was active in many fields: Senior Scouts and basketball being his most outstanding. But probably, the image of the irresistibly lovable Lenon mounted on his sturdy, faithful bicycle will remain in the hearts of all for many years to come.

One of the most important figures in the Senior class was Francis. His tremendous contributions to the student body of St. Joseph's cannot be expressed in so many words; but as captain of the Junior Varsity Soccer team and as he was the class president for so many years back, his presence has never gone unnoticed. Although his reputation went from 'popular' and 'outstanding' to 'notorious' and 'not-so-outstanding', he remained one of the most colorful characters in the school. Blessed with innate intelligence and patience, he was one of the top students in his day, and one of the key members in the production of this year's yearbook. Again, his nickname of "St. Joe's Platini" was thoroughly justified by his great yet rather unorthodox soccer talent. No matter what can be said about Francis Hasegawa, he will definitely not be easily forgotten at SJIS.

This year a girl was to join our class, the first girl in the class' history, and in a sense we were extremely lucky that that girl was Yoko. Her presence re-kindled the dwindling flame of the Class of '87 as soon as she entered. Her tremendous attractiveness in all areas was to make her extremely popular with her classmates. Amiable and altruistic would best describe her character, making her very easy to get along with. She was self-disciplined and independent, showing her remarkable maturity as a young woman. Although this was only her first year, she made great contributions to various activities, especially this year's yearbook. Being the first female graduate is a distinction that she carries forward with pride, and indeed she has set a fine example for the other female students soon to graduate from St. Joseph's in the future.

Our only blond(?) haired American was Jeff. As a good natured and benevolent human being, he spread good will over the class and inspired close camaraderie at times when the class was in trouble. He was extremely well-read as was demonstrated by his remarkable general knowledge. His tremendous efforts in baseball and basketball were much applauded this year; especially his high spirit and enthusiasm he displayed at all times. People will remember Jeff for his "punk-chameleon" like exploits and his frequent "self-destructive" tendencies which never failed to amuse and evoke the emotions of his classmates. No doubt they all anticipate a successful life for Jeff.

Our keenest and most avid scholar was Stephen. His perseverance in studies was clearly evident as his name seemed to be permanently inscribed on the Honor Roll during his years at St. Joseph. In his constant pursuit of academic perfection, he often confounded and sometimes even annoyed teachers with his sagacious remarks. Aside from his studies, Stephen was an active four-year member of the Drama Club and was a member of the prestigious National Honor Society. He also took on the hard task of Constitution Committee chairman and did a very fine job. Swimming and computer programming were just some of the numerous hobbies he enjoyed.

Intelligent. Creative. Brilliant. Extraordinary. Baffling. LARGE. This was Sato-chan; a man of ineffable proportions. Despite his somewhat awesome scholastic disposition, he remained one of the most delightful characters in school. His playful tendencies amused and surprised others; but then again he is still relatively young. (So much for child prodigy), Being exceptionally adept at almost everything, he literally made his presence felt everywhere, whether it be in Baseball, Drama, or Brainbowl. St. Joe's will find it hard to find such a uniquely gifted individual as Sato-fumi again, but rest assured, the rest of the world can anticipate a BIG surprise in the future!

As might be suggested by his notorious 'Survival Game' antics, Yoshino is a very energetic and aggressive individual. His love for the outdoors was clearly shown by his healthy appearance and the energy and enthusiasm he put into his studies. Being one of our "Super-Scouts" he was dedicated to the concept of philanthropy and of "being prepared for the worst." His extraordinary good-looks and charm even got him a brief stint with the Drama Club. Pursuing his interest in "Hokuto Shinken" took up a lot of his time and inexhaustible energy.

By far the most active person this year was Yo-cho. He did a tremendous job as Student Council President this year due to his inherent quality of leadership. He excelled at sports, his success at the Far East Championships in Korea justifying his ranking as the Number One cross-country runner in the Kanto Plains. However, his greatest responsibility was as captain of the soccer team. The absence of last year's good players did not dishearten him as he lifted the spirit of the team and led us to another successful season. Being good-natured and affable, he enjoyed good relationships with his classmates and was well respected by teachers as well as students. He also showed remarkable talent as a singer, his success at the various Rock Show and Bonfire performances proving that he is the true Metalician he claims to be. All in all, he was a true Renaissance Man.

A man of the arts was Hirokazu; "a fellow of infinite jest, of most excellent fancy." His appreciation for the aesthetic was clearly evident in his undeniable talent as an artist. As a true Thespian, he put plenty of passion and vigor into his roles; the characters he portrayed were as much him as he was them. As an all-round student and athlete, he took the prestigious titles of National Honor Society chairman and Welfare Committee chairman, as well as managing to participate in Baseball and lead the White team in the House competitions. Although his daring exploits on his motorcycle might have concerned his classmates, no doubt they realize that he has too bright a future to waste at this bright time in his life.

One of the most modest students was Hayaki. Although in class he was usually reticent, his opinions, when delivered, were always well considered and very much welcomed. Sincerity, politeness and his lovable smile all contributed to his popularity and the respect he got from others. Being trustworthy and honest, he was the perfect person to take the responsibility of the Student Council Treasury. But probably his most remarkable accomplishment was his sudden elevation from the Intensive English Program to the prestigious ranks of the high school Honor Roll. Besides his academic achievements, Hayaki was one of the key figures on the Basketball team and also was an extremely talented and gifted guitarist.

In the ninth grade our class was hit by a Mexican tornado which came in the shape of Rafael. Although not physically destructive, the gentle Rafael still baffled teachers with his uncanny ability of getting good grades in classes when he seemed to be paying no attention at all. Being naturally artistic and creative, he mastered the job of the Publicity Committee almost singlehandedly, and also took on the arduous task of Forward photographer. Only his trustworthiness and reliability could make him take on the frustrating job of Senior Class treasurer, which he did in an impeccably organized manner. Despite his laid-back, Honolulu-paced attitude toward life, he will probably be remembered most for his good-natured manner toward people, and his straight-forwardness and frankness with his friends.

Rizalito was one of the most open and friendly members of the class. Although his pride sometimes got the better of his personality, he was one of the most popular and respected students in the school. He was remarkably independent and strong-willed; never allowing his own ideas and opinions to be sacrificed for someone else's. He was a natural-born entertainer, and was talented in both singing (which could be heard in the St. Joseph corridors) and acting as proved by his various acting stints in and out of school. Most of all he was instrumental in bringing about the Renaissance of basketball when there was a lack of interest. His amazing talent rejuvenated the basketball team as he served as captain for two years. His love for life and his love for love will no doubt bring him a rich and rewarding life.

"Doggy" was the nickname of the "dramatic" Shintaro. Being not only talented in acting, but also in writing, the Drama Club successfully staged many of his own plays. Like his canine counterpart, Shintaro was sharp and keen as well as faithful and obedient. His comical nature and somewhat innocent appearance always managed to tug on one's heartstrings, thus making it hard to resist this gentle person. He made tremendous improvements in his drumming over the last year in addition to his already prominent singing talent.

A man famous for his scouting achievements was Yoshihiro. Gentle and soft spoken, he was one of the most agreeable people you could ever meet. Politeness and sincerity are two of his most salient traits, making him one of the most trusted students in the class. He was much respected for the prestigious title of Globe Scout, a rare and distinguished accomplishment. He was also a very skilled tennis player, supporting the tennis team for four years. His undeniable musical talent was shown in his skill at playing keyboards and his incomparable singing which amazed and delighted all at the Bonfire.

One of the most serious and conscientious students was Toshio. All of us respected his stoical approach to life and his determination to succeed in everything he set out to do. His physical appearance gave the immediate impression of a strong, stable character; what he lacked in height he made up for with sheer hard work, especially on the basketball team. He was well self-disciplined and impressively spiritually and emotionally stable. His overcoming the great obstacles and language barriers since joining us two years ago is a clear indication of his remarkable diligence and self-discipline.

The most religiously-inclined person in the class was Koei. His tremendous spiritual stability and stoical approach to life no doubt was felt by his classmates who held a great respect for the high-school veteran. Henri Bergson's philosophical principles no doubt influenced Koei, especially with regard to the concept of time. (Being tardy and not being on time do not necessarily mean the same thing.) Because of his great attention to detail and punctiliousness, teachers were always wary of the eagle-eyed Koei lest he should find some ambiguity in their relatively irrefutable theories. Most of all, his calm and stoical attitude inspired a great deal of confidence in others.

A twelve-year veteran served, and did an excellent job as Social Committee chairman this year. His experience and organizational skill helped make this year's dances some of the most memorable and exciting St. Joe's has ever experienced. A reticent and pensive individual, Akiharu was altogether sincere and altruistic, despite his overtly outgoing appearance and somewhat vague introspection. As a rather socially orientated person, he got along well with people from all different backgrounds, particularly females. As the Forward's editor this year, he took a great deal of responsibility and never failed to put his best in at all times no matter what the task; another facet of his extraordinary character. No doubt in the future he is looking forward to experiencing the success he so richly deserves.

As the epithet "Professor" suggests, Keiichi was one of those rare gems that St. Joseph is proud to have nurtured. He was a man of many different talents. He was undoubtedly the best drummer ever to emerge from the musical breeding-ground of St. Joseph. He had the gift of being naturally sharp-witted and astute, and often took great pleasure in refuting and contradicting his teachers' theories, although his sarcastic wit was often too forward for their liking. He proved to be an invaluable member of the Brainbowl team and served as a fine Student Council Secretary this year, although he will probably be remembered most for his superb acting achievements in the Drama Club where he also held the prestigious title of Drama Club President for two years. His hectic schedule would still not deter him from pursuing his outside interests, including computer programming, drumming, and Heavy Metal. He was indeed an uniquely gifted individual.

Katsuji was a person who expressed great concern for his classmates and never hesitated to help them in times of crisis. He could always be counted upon to salvage hope from a desperate situation when the class could turn to no one else. Strong-willed and reliable are adjectives that would probably best describe his character. As a truly mature and responsible human being, he manifested his leadership abilities as chairman of the Interact Club. He was noticeably confident and outgoing in class, the respect he gathered from his teachers and underclassmen coming only as a natural consequence. His positive traits also shone through in his singing at the Bonfire and Rock Show performances, where he impressed us all with his musical talent and experience.

Our second American, Jeffery, was a quiet, humble person who proved to be very sincere with his close friends. Although shy in class, he exhibited himself as a very conscientious student and his name wasn't a rare occurrence on the Honor Roll. He surprised us all with his great talents as a tennis player, and was a dedicated member of the tennis team for many years. Other hobbies include listening to Disco music and photography.

A man who maintained a determined outlook on life owing to his understanding of the ups and downs of life was Masato. His early appearance as a cute, delicate and gullible youngster could be easily deceptive as he was transformed into a man with a strong will, strong self-conscience and the ability to think for himself and defend his own ideas. No doubt this, coupled with his frankness and condescending nature, accounted for his overwhelming popularity with underclassmen. His strong musical inclination spilled over into his other activities, including studies and sports (cross-country), where he would tend to be rather self-critical and moody at times. But probably most of all he will be remembered for his amazing guitar histrionics, not only reflecting the inborn talent of a musician, but the emotions of a passionate human being.

Congratulations on your 25 years of service at S.J.I.S.

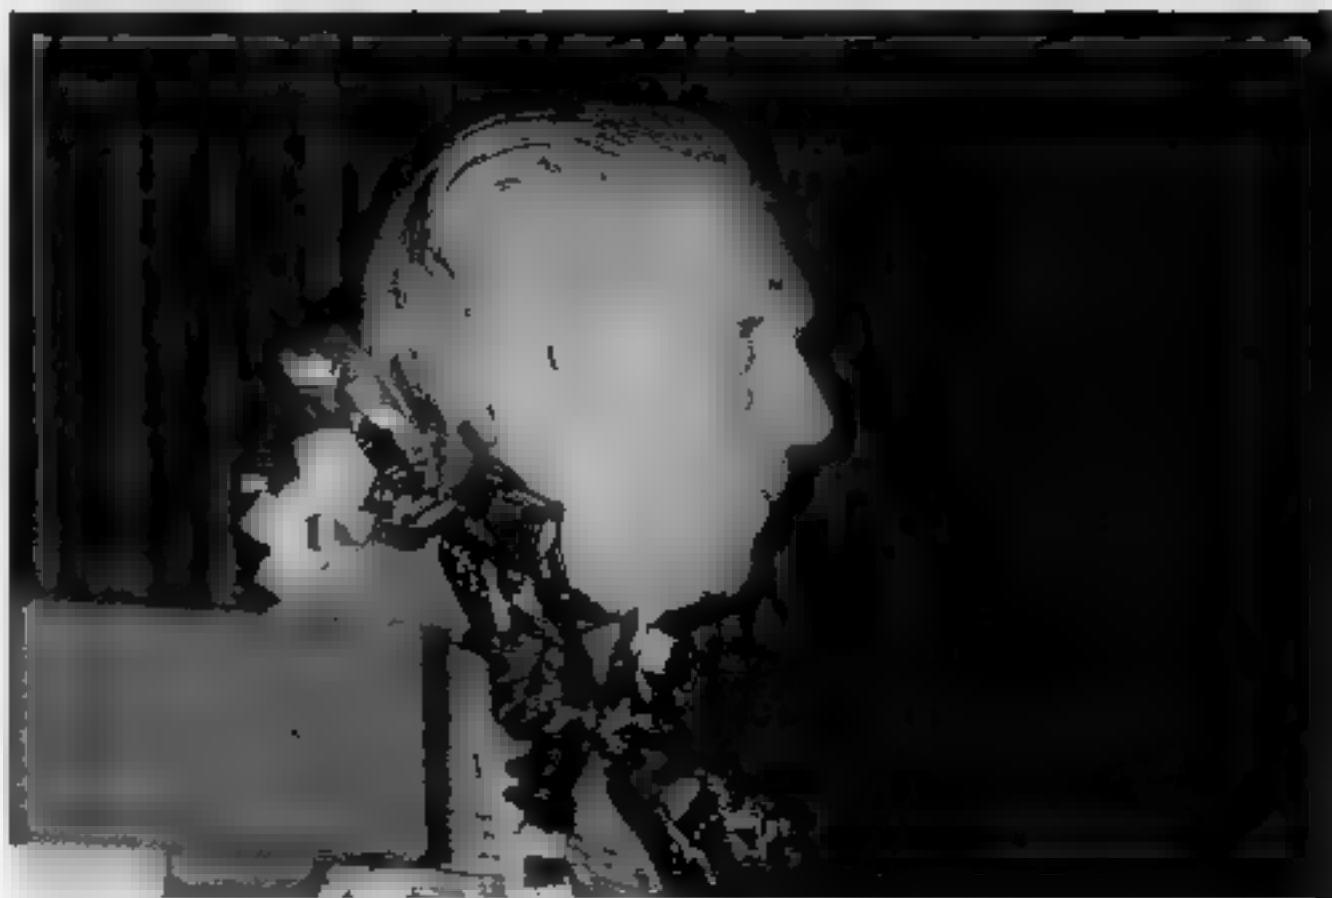

Short Account of My Life – 1921 to 1986

On August 11, 1921, I was born to Charles and Mathilda Loebig, the first of six children. When I became of age, I attended our parish school, Saint Leo's, finishing there the first eight years of my formal education. On July 31, 1936, when I was still fourteen years old, I left my home in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, to go to Beacon-on-the-Hudson, New York, where I began training to become a Marianist Brother and teacher. After four years of high school and one more year of specialized religious formation, I attended the University of Dayton in Ohio and received from that Institution of learning a Bachelor of Science in Education in April of 1944.

My first year in the classroom began in September, 1943, at Our Lady of the Rosary School in Dayton, Ohio. The following school year found me teaching at Immaculate Conception School in Washington, D.C., where I was able to visit and learn from the many national treasures of the United States. At the end of that scholastic year, I was asked to go to Hawaii to teach at our school on the Big Island of Hawaii. There I spent six happy years from 1945 to 1951 before going to the island of Maui for two years. The years 1953 and 1954 were spent at Saint Louis College in Honolulu. The following year was one of special study in Glencoe, Missouri. While returning to Hawaii, I stopped in California for a visit and while there, I was made an assistant in the training program for our young teachers. So the years from 1956 to 1961 were spent in sunny California, mostly in Santa Cruz, a little south of San Francisco.

At 9:30 pm on September 5, 1961, I stepped from the JAL plane at Haneda Airport to begin my wonderful twenty-five years of teaching at St. Joseph International School in Yokohama. During those memorable years I have served in various capacities and at different grade levels. But all of them have been very rewarding, mostly because of the Japanese people whom I have grown to love as my own. While everything was so strange and new when I first arrived in Japan in 1961, now I feel very much "at home" in this friendly country where I have been allowed to spend half of my teaching career. It is my hope that I may live the rest of my days with the students and friends who are so close to my heart.

Brother Charles Loebig, S.M.

Dear Senior Class of 1987,

My congratulations to you for having successfully completed your high school days here at St. Joseph International School. You have been an excellent class, but at times trying. You are a class with great talent. You are a distinguished class in having been accepted by many very prestigious universities. You are the senior class which inspired Mr. Stavrinaky to put on "Hamlet" for the major production of the Drama Club. You are the first class to ever have had a member who placed way up on top in the Far East Cross Country Relays. You are definitely an outstanding class.

One of the things which I suggest to you is that you do not forget your Alma Mater. Wherever you go, please realize that you carry your education with you. It cannot be taken away. I hope it proves to be a treasure for you. Wherever you go, you will be able to find graduates of St. Joseph International School. Bear yourselves proudly, proud to bear the name of St. Joseph. I encourage you to join the Alumni Association, and thus to keep your contacts with the other graduates of St. Joseph International School, as well as the contacts with your classmates and teachers. This will be a source of continuing joy for you.

You are a class in which co-education is evident for the first time in many years. My congratulations to our first graduating girl, Miss Iida. My congratulations to all of you.

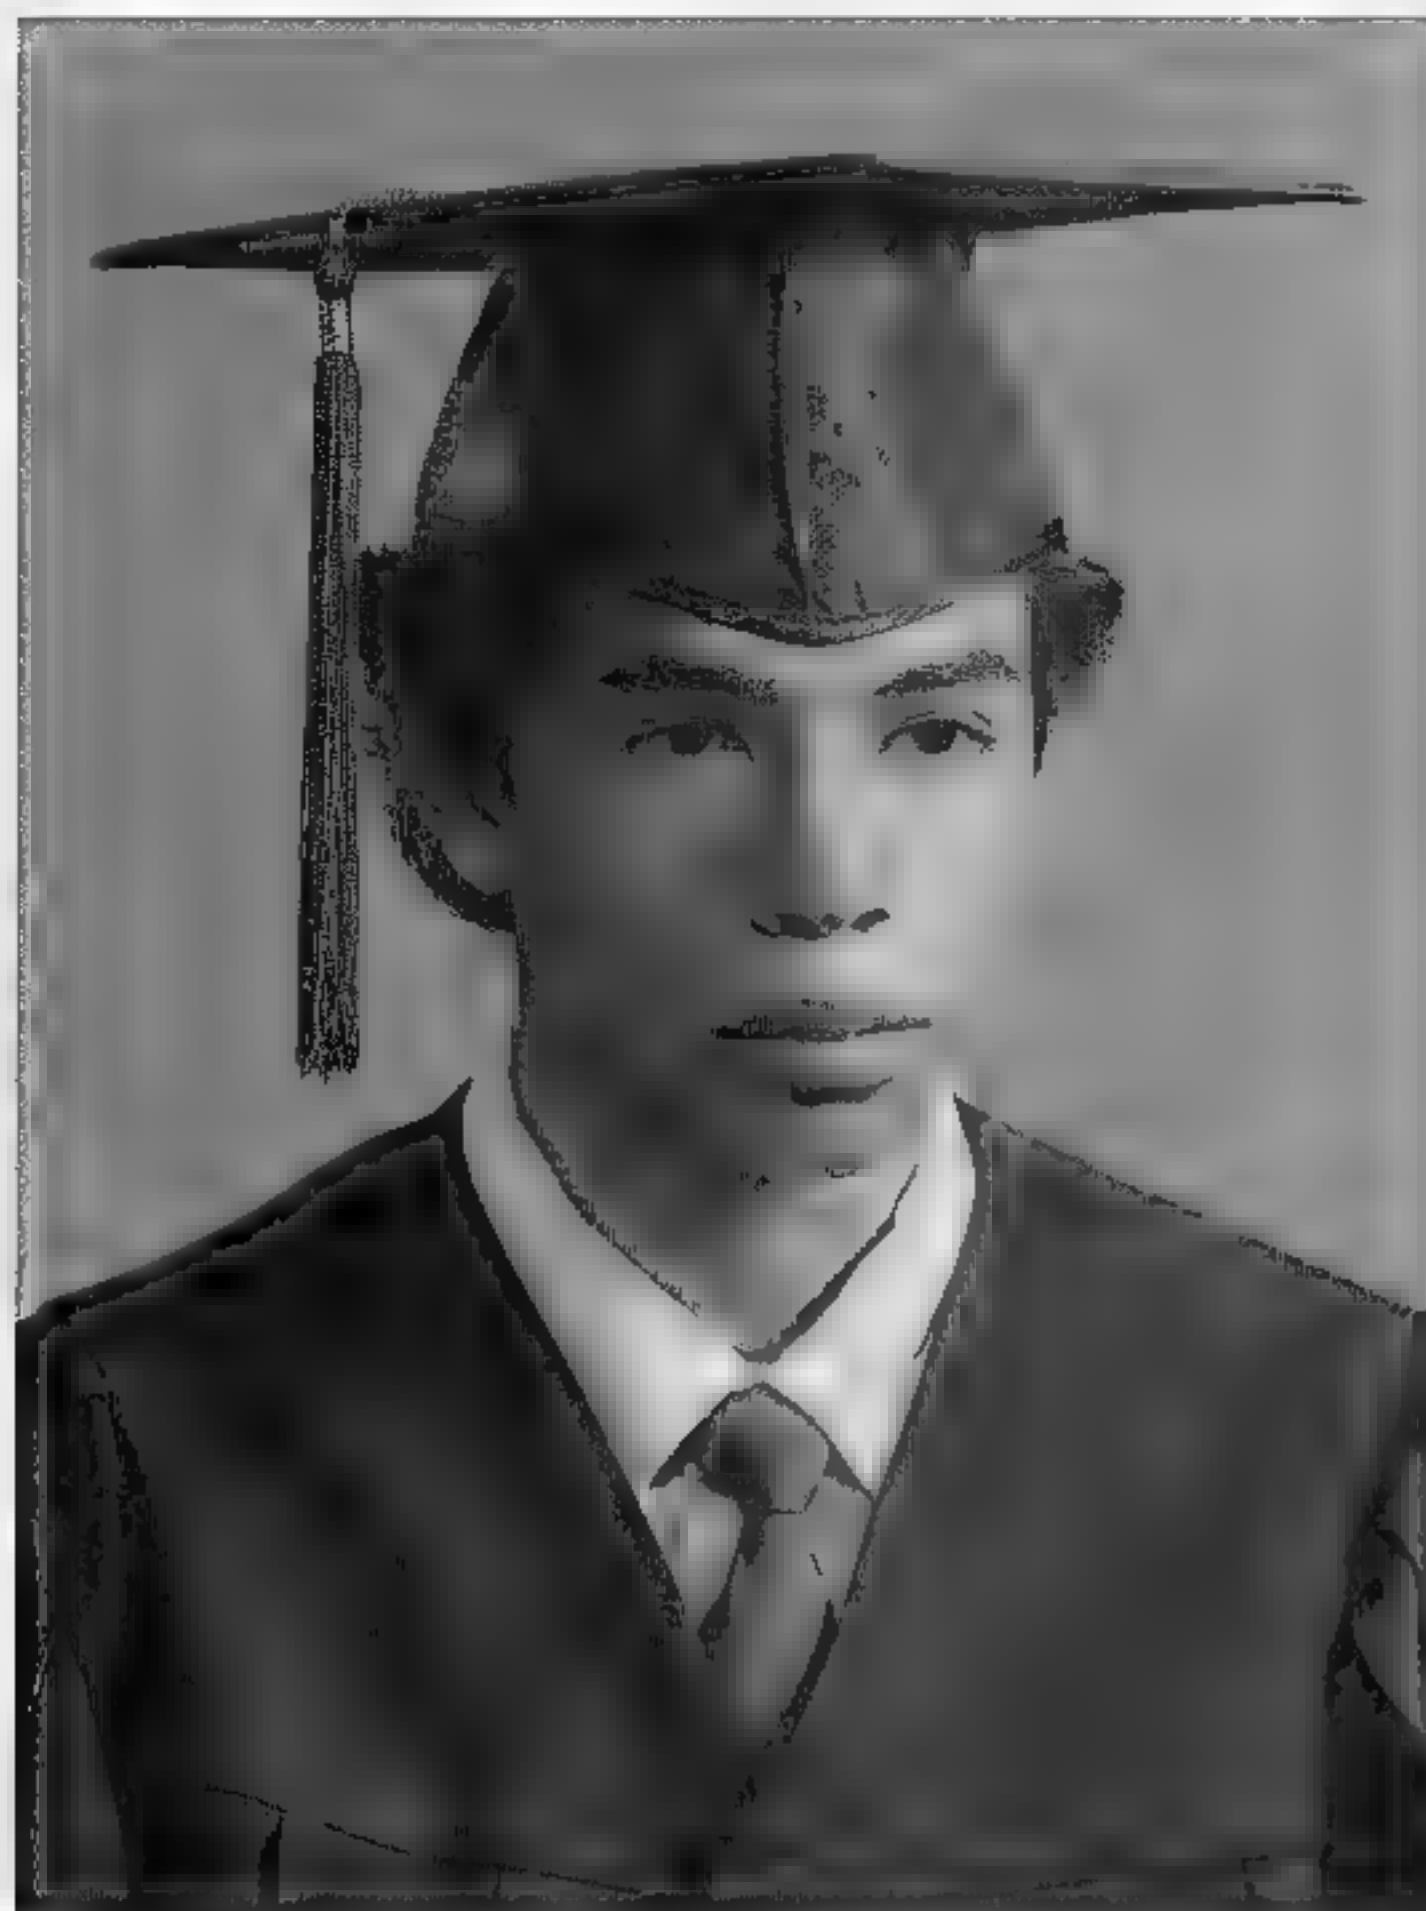

We wish you the best. May God bless and keep you.

Sincerely yours,

James J. Mueller

Bro. Robert Kelly

June 14, 1987

My Dear Graduates of the Class of 1987,

I want to CONGRATULATE you upon your graduation from S.J.I.S. and wish you every success in your future endeavors.

When I first arrived at S.J.I.S. most of you were then 8th graders and in your final year of grade school. I have watched you pass successfully through each of your high school years. That fact is one of the nice rewards of a teacher being at a school for a number of years. It has been, also, my privilege to be your homeroom teacher in the final twelfth year and to render whatever service, I could, to you during the year.

In its past history St. Joseph International School was, for a time, co-educational. Your class has witnessed the return to co-education, and, in particular, to having as your classmate, Yoko, who has graced our class with her pleasant disposition, ready smile, and studious attention to her work.

Now that you leave your formation years behind and go forth to prepare for your vocation do not forget the basic rule of thumb: Maturity = Responsibility + Accountability. Be true to yourself, your God, and the principles under which S.J.I.S. is rooted: Love of God, and love of one's neighbor

Please keep in touch with one another through the Alumni Association. Bro. Calvo is the moderator.

Again. Congratulations, and my sincere wishes of success in the future. I remain, always,

Sincerely yours,

Bro. Robert Kelly, S.M.

The Junior class is a class of twenty seven individuals with pleasant personalities, full of ambition and high aspirations. Students from different cultural backgrounds at the prime of their age, trying to excel in academics as well as extracurricular activities create an atmosphere that gives me hope and confidence that people from different countries can and will live together happily, leaving aside their national boundaries but at the same time valuing dearly their cultural heritage.

In general, the class of '90 are a likeable' endearing mass of diverse individuals, all bent on pursuing their real or imaginary goals. In this respect, they are a veritable microcosm of humanity. At the outset, nobody quite knew who the president was or how long he would be in the office. The present young class president, however, appears to have won the affection and allegiance of his classmates. His lovely helpmate, a budding and promising actress, also performs her duties extremely well. Nine of the freshmen have joined the SJIS Drama Club the best possible recommendation for any class at our school. Many display interest and perseverance in athletic activities. The extreme loquacity of this class sometimes leads their teacher to believe he is in an aviary housing huge tropical birds that twitter incessantly. He likes to believe, however, that their academic average will prove that the brains of his temporary sons and daughters are somewhat larger and better developed than those of their feathered counterparts. He certainly wishes them the best, especially those in the subject he teaches and in the activity he moderates.

What surprised me about the Eighth Graders this year is their initiative, unity, and determination. One happening will exemplify this. A few weeks before the Christmas Assembly, I had told the class that they should not perform a play for the assembly due to lack of time for preparation. Before I knew it, the class had organized a play committee (one student had written a play), had decided on the cast, and had even practised in the classroom after school. The play turned out to be a success. This positive attitude was also shown when the class prepared for the Bingo-Food Festival and the Class Excursion.

GRADE 7

Mr. C. Chang

Twelve girls and sixteen boys make up the 7th grade this year. They represent seven nationalities and four major religions of the world. But they live in harmony and respect. For they have learned that different peoples of the world live according to different customs and traditions. Thus they try to understand other cultures with a spirit of tolerance; they spare no effort in settling disputes according to the best interest of the entire class. Feelings of wariness, rejection or discrimination toward people of different colors or languages have no place in the 7th grade.

The 5th Grade is a good class to work with. The 5th Graders have a variety of interests. As a class they are good in many subjects, especially in singing. Several are in the choir. Many are in the Junior Red Cross, quite a few in scouting. Most of the class like hiking in the mountains. The 5th Graders like animals and nature. Most like sports, especially baseball and soccer. When you put all these things together, you certainly have a lively, interesting class.

The 3rd graders are a delightful group of youngsters. Third graders are no longer learning basic fundamentals, but are now eager to try-out their early "tools of the trade". For the first time, the 3rd graders can join after school activities of which they are quite eager to show their participation. They now have an awareness of belonging to a group or "family" as St. Joseph is. My class is very enthusiastic, inquisitive, and shows much initiative to further research many things learned in the classroom. They are a quiet group of students who study hard and learn well. They are all quite special.

Baseball

Captain : Asahi Okuda

Even though most of the baseball team members were undisciplined in the beginning of this season, they had improved very much and we had reached the level of last year's baseball team by the middle of the season. I hope our team will win the championship next year. I feel special gratitude to Mr. Kobo for his endeavour to lead us to the victory.

The high school baseball team started weight training and batting practice from last December as usual. The players were devoted to it, but I was worried if they would have a good team because of their poor skills. Although the Saints were defeated by the Yokota Panthers in the opening two games, they could split with the ASIJ Mustangs and the Kinnick Devils. They played very well against the Zama Trojans and the St. Mary's Titans.

Coach : Mr Y Kobo

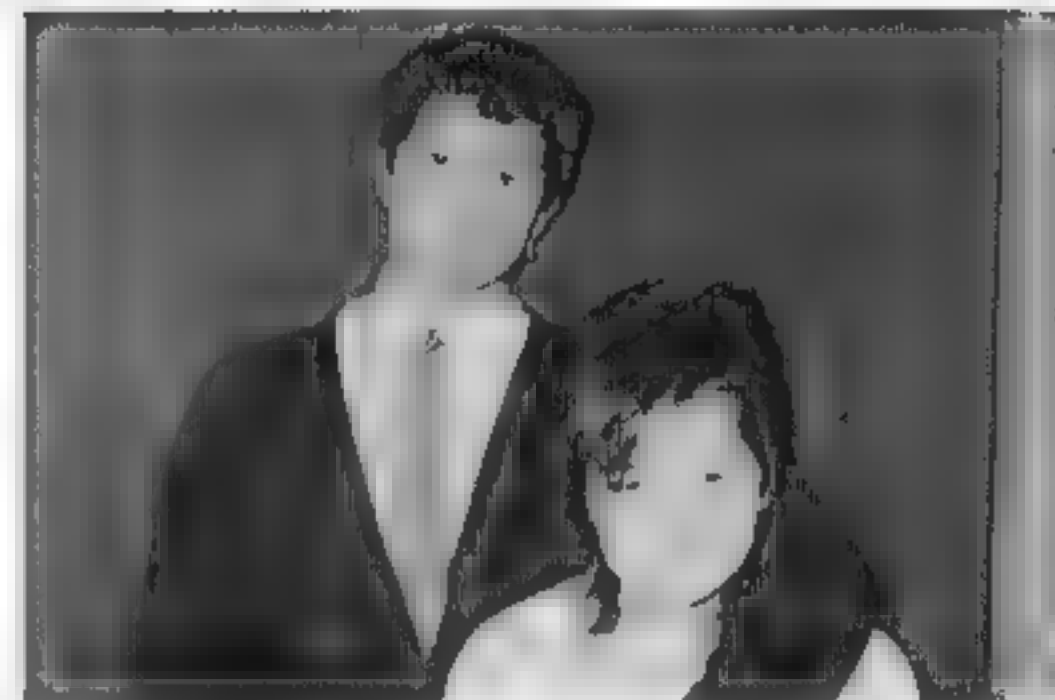

Coach : Mr. P. Eymard

Coach : Mr. M. Miron

Three years ago, most of the basketball players didn't even know how to dribble or shoot the ball. Now these players are better, thanks mostly to Mr. Miron and Mr Eymard. A very special thanks to the first basketball team. I hope next year the basketball team will be able to join the Junior Varsity League because I know that they are ready to meet that challenge.

Rizalito & Joanna

The St. Joseph Basketball team enjoyed one of its most successful seasons finishing up with 6 victories to only 2 defeats. Senior Rizalito Santos lead the spirited attack in both points and rebounds. The high light of the season was our last game against ASIJ. Desire, HUSTLE, team play and a strong defense is the name of the game and St. Joseph is where you will find it.

Over the hills and far away. . . all the harriers did manifested their best by devoting themselves to the 1987 Cross-Country team. We all know that it wasn't easy, but we all reached our goals; physical and also mental endurance. I would like to congratulate and thank the SJIS harriers (esp. the noisy girls) and also Mr. Miron. The spirit of Cross-Country team '87 shall not perish from our hearts.

Moderator : Mr. M. Miron

What a year! Four dedicated girls from the sophomore class joined us for long runs, and weekend races. Our captain, Ya-cho, lead our boy's team with almost unbeatable performances, topped off by a second in the Far East Championship in Seoul, South Korea. Every member, as well as the coach, can look back on this season with pride and a great sense of accomplishment.

Soccer

Captain . Hajime Kurehara

I was worried. The team this year was new, young, inexperienced, and not confident enough. But as each game went by, we gradually built up our tactics and our team work. This enabled us to grasp the trophy twice in a row. I will never forget the guts that we showed at the Tournament, especially in the snow. I would like to thank the team and Mr. Morgan for making '87 a success. GREAT!! TWO-YEAR CHAMPS!! MAKE IT THREE-IN-A-ROW NEXT YEAR!!

The 1986-87 soccer season had a number of highlights. The J.V. team remained unbeaten in regular season game for the second consecutive year! However, they only managed to place third in the J.V. Tournament. The Varsity team finished third (yet again) in the league but retained the Tournament Trophy for the second consecutive season. Congratulations to all members. Make sure you join us for next season. 1987-88 IS THE BIG ONE!!

Tennis

The 1986-87 Tennis Team looked very good back in September especially with the new Freshman members. We practiced hard in Ishikawa-cho Tennis garden, unfortunately, the results didn't come out as we had expected in the beginning. Fortunately our first and second singles players are pleasant sophomores and will continue to develop, therefore we all can look forward to better results next season.

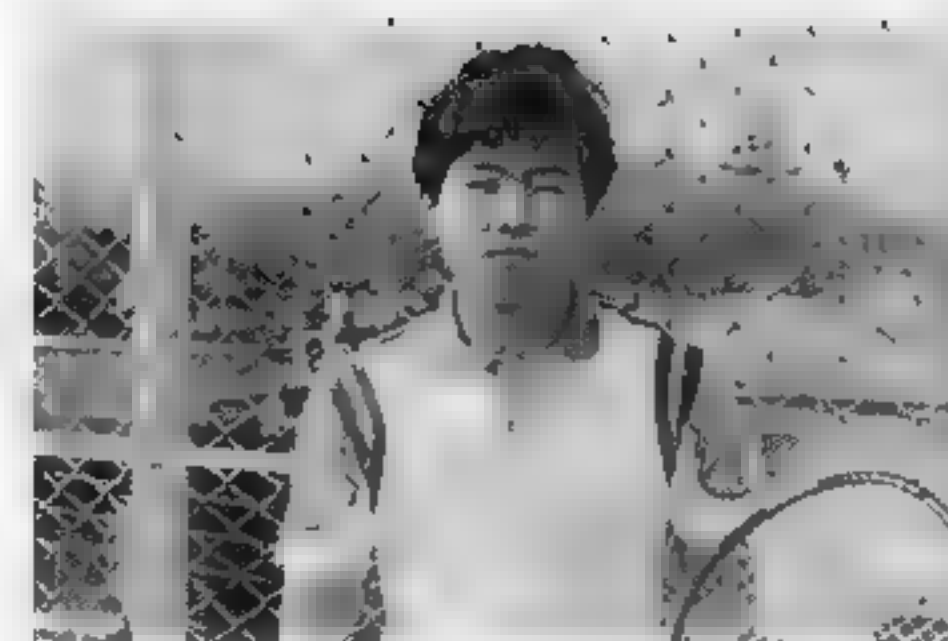

Captain : Tetsuya Yamazaki

The 1986 tennis season saw the inclusion of girls in the club, with Sayuri Nakata and Hidemi Tamaki as the first two members. Sayuri had played some tennis before, but during the season developed much more powerful ground strokes. Hidemi was almost a beginner at the start of the season, but worked very hard on her service and ground strokes, reaching a level which surprised us all. In the Kantō Plains tennis league for boys, 1986 was an unusual year. Unlike in the past few years, when only A.S.I.J. and St. Mary's had strong teams, the overall standard of the tennis played in the 1986 season was very high. As a result, the team was faced with capable players in every match, which led to many close, competitive games. Unfortunately, this exposed our weakness; we had a rather young, inexperienced team (one senior, two juniors, the rest sophomores and freshmen). This meant we were too susceptible under pressure, and so lost several points which we could have won. We hope that the same players will be here next season, and that the experiences of 1986 will help them grow into more confident, aggressive players, since they all have the ability to win against all the other players in the Kantō Plain league.

Desire and enthusiasm spawned our first ever girls' basketball team. Led by captain Kathy Numano, the team outplayed rival St. Maurs to a 30-20 victory. No doubt, this young team will be one of the league's strongest

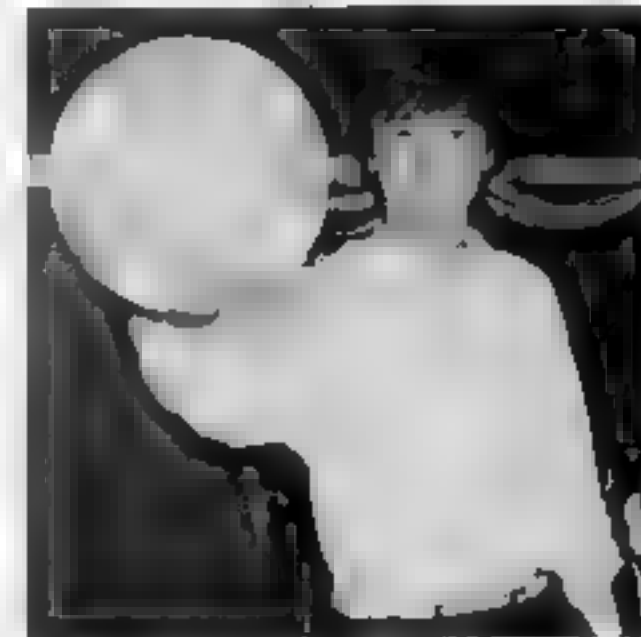

Captain : Kathy Numano

I believe that this year was the first year to ever have a girls' basketball team in St. Joseph. At first, I was very worried of what it would be like: IT WAS A SUCCESS! I must thank the team members and coaches for being enthusiastic, but next year I would like more enthusiasm from more girls. Thank you.

The activities of the Student Council were much as they have been in past years with two exceptions: after four years a constitution has been presented to the administration, thanks to Stephen Kha and his committee, also a spirit week has been initiated, thanks to Carl Anderson and his fellow planners.

Working with the members, or almost all the time by myself was exciting and never boring. I, as a Sports Committee chairman, would like to thank all the sports committee members for the great support they gave me. Our field day this year was quite successful, indeed. It could be more memorable and exciting if we had had it on the regular date of April. Good luck to Billy Reyle, next year's chairman, in his fourth year on the Sports Committee.

This year we had one of the most memorable Bonfires ever at St. Joe's: A Bonfire without a fire. In addition, men in black and silver uniforms came as special guests, and we were lucky enough to have a professional band come to perform. Although I got many stomach ulcers because of last minute complications, all of the members worked like dogs in both the Bonfire and the Rock Show. It was my pleasure to work with you people. ALL OF YOU WERE SUPER!!

Who cares what the 23rd amendment of the U.S. Constitution was; or what the square root of 1521 is; or what happened on June 28, 1914 in Sarajevo? The Brain Bowl Team cares, that's who. They are also passionately interested in how many seconds are in June (25,920,000), what vertebrates' naves are (nostrils), and who won the Punic Wars (Rome). This year's team finished six in the field of ten schools at tournament. Next year, without the Seniors, it will be tough but the present Juniors and others will rise to the challenge.

Chronicle

Editor : Billy Reyle

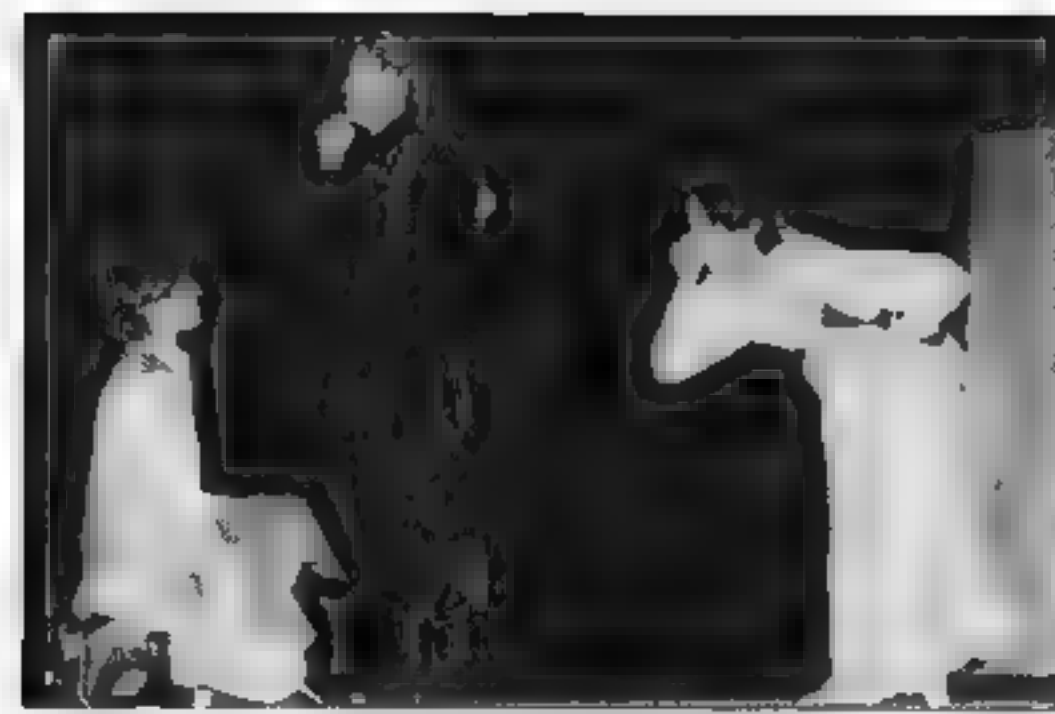

Despite the "graduation" of the super trio to the Forward, the technical switch-over from North Star to the "little mac", and the disorganization of the moderator, the Chronicle did succeed in producing two superior editions. Thanks to Editor Billy Reyle and his great staff.

This has been one of the most exciting years in the history of the drama club. Thanks to the sudden blossoming (unfortunately accompanied by a just as sudden withering) of Shintaro Okabe's literary talents, we had two brilliant plays from the pen of our Arthur Rimbaud: the effervescent "Peppermint Creams" and the hauntingly wistful "Angry Sea." The former was performed at school and at two English Festivals; the latter only at the Kanjo Plains Drama Festival at Saint Maur. Why the drama club was never asked to perform it for our students I'll never know. Its craftsmanship and poignancy would have certainly justified an assembly where the entire student body could have appreciated it. The birth and death of Okabe's prolific theatrical output could be likened to the rapid passage of two shooting stars that provide beauty and joy to whoever happens to witness the ephemeral phenomenon. The fact that nothing but a memory remains, even in the playwright's rather rapid mind, makes the two plays even more precious.

Okabe also wrote an amusing avant garde pastiche at Christmas, just in time to capture the last flickers of his literary creativity. This was featured at the Christmas assembly, along with his own "Peppermint Creams" and an American one-act play about a prisoner escaping in a balloon. From the beginning of February, the drama club started preparing a hilarious comedy by Jean Anouilh: "Thieves' Carnival." As is usually the case with high school productions, the comedy soon evolved into a tragedy: the only actress in the organization developed violent symptoms of the disastrous prima donna complex. This disease spread even to some of the actors. After more than a month of practising and interchanging roles, the project was abandoned and Shakespeare's "Hamlet" was chosen. This led to a series of extremely emotional trades from Stephen Kha, who from that day forth, vowed revenge and threatened to see to it that "Hamlet" became a flop.

In spite of Mr. Kha's earnest endeavours to accomplish his questionable enterprise, "Hamlet" proved to be the most successful play ever staged by the drama club. This was largely due to the presence of our own inimitable president: Tajji. Notwithstanding problems with costumes, publicity, and lighting, our production of "Hamlet" shone with a refulgence that was perforce transitory. With Tajji gone, the drama club will be steeped in Stygian darkness, for there is now no one left to inspire the moderator next year.

Of all the four years that I have been a member of the Drama Club, this year was certainly the most creative and exciting one. Starting off by putting on three original plays, we finished up by performing the world-famous "Hamlet". What makes it more impressive is that we began blocking "Hamlet" only 40 days before the day of the performance. This year was also the toughest year for me, as well as for other members. For the first time I learned how to lead people without annoying them. Honestly speaking, I felt no sense of commitment and strong passion toward drama on the part of many of the freshman members. I could almost assure myself that such a demanding play as "Hamlet" would simply be out of the question to be successfully staged with so little time and devotion, but I was proven to be wrong on April 24th and 25th when the play turned out to be a great success.

Last Words: "I think I did a lousy job as a president, but I don't give a hoot about it now that it's all over. Anyway, thanks a lot for your cooperation, everyone, and best wishes for you next year!"

Koji's team (ages 13 - 15) was super - we had 4 wins, 1 draw and 2 losses in the Chibikko Tournament. This is a record.

Danilo's team (grades 7 & 8) was also super - we had 8 wins. We scored 39 goals, and only conceded one point. Good defense! WE WON THE 2ND INTERNATIONAL SCHOOL'S JUNIOR HIGH TOURNAMENT (2 years in a row).

Akara's team (ages 9 - 12) was O.K. We had 1 draw and 3 losses in the Chibikko Tournament. We had 3 wins and 1 loss in 4 friendly games.

Chris' team (grades 4 - 6) is still learning. We had 3 losses and 1 win.

We all worked hard during the summer vacation!

We all thank our managers, Masami, Akiko and Nana, for their hard work, especially when it was freezing cold out there on the soccer field!

FORWARD STAFF '87

The FORWARD 1987 came to realization due mainly to the work of seven dedicated seniors who sacrificed a lot to work on this album. You did a great job!

The editor, Akikaru, who inevitably turned into the photographer midway and did double work.

The layout editor, Tajji, who stoically did all 168 pages of basic layout.

The co-editor, Yo-cho, who complainingly laid out most of the photos.

The typist, Yoko, who painstakingly typed up the numerous names and comments.

The literary editor, Carl, who, at his own pace, did all the literary work, including his own senior description.

The ads layouter, Hayaki, who reticently completed the ads pages all by himself.

The business manager, Katsuji, who despite his procrastination, is a natural in the business.

Treasure the Forward 1987 as one of the greatest achievements in high school. Remember, never take a job too lightly.

Moderator: Mr. P Eymard

Editor-in-Chief: Akiharu

You were the editor. We all unanimously agree that you did a great job. But if you would only talk to your staff more instead of shutting yourself away in the darkroom, then maybe we could have finished the job without so many headaches. Instead of giving advice to us, you kept complaining about your girls and all your selfish little problems. Also, you really picked the best time to get sick, putting the Forward out of action for about a month. Anyway, you were one of the only serious members and we all appreciated your hard work.

Layout Editor: Keiichi

Your Chronicle training really paid off well; especially in the art of procrastination. Not only that, but you insisted on being so meticulous that you baffled Franco altogether. And also, why do you have to be so sarcastic and cynical when you know that we are under great pressure? Your continuous battle for the tape recorder with the typist annoyed the rest of the staff who were happy enough with their Walkmans. But really your talent always left us speechless. The rest is silence, Prince Taffy!

Literary Editor: Carl

Guess what? I wrote all the Senior descriptions. I wrote all those nasty Forward staff comments. And in the end I couldn't find anyone to write my own. I don't mind bragging just this once, (a little self-indulgence is healthy now and then) but then who cares?! It's none of your business and I can write what I want.

P.S. You should have learned by now never to take me seriously.

Co-Editor: Yo-cho

Good job Yo-cho, good job. What can we say? You were great as usual. The only reason you came to FORWARD was to see the typist! We understand that you are involved in many other things, but who cares? You don't have to sulk about it all the time. But you did manage to contribute something throughout the year, despite your other engagement. We're only joking and we hope you don't mind. After all, that's what being a Forward member is all about, right? One piece of advice: Stick to one slice of bread; don't spread yourself over the whole loaf.

Typist: Yoko

You joined the Forward because you had no other elective choice, but hey! You did a pretty good job. Not only can you touch-type, but you can also buy great snacks and keep the Forward room clean. But just how many times did you bug the literary editor with your typing errors, and just how many typewriters and word processors does it take to make you happy. But at least you rarely complained and you were always a pleasant distraction. Yes, we all agree; you're the best-looking girl in the class?!

Business Manager: Katsuji

Just when it seemed you were only sitting around and taking up space (the Forward room is small, and you're quite big) and not doing any work, you came through and surprised us with your great efforts in selling last minute ads. Why do you always want to take out Layouter with you? It's not worth it. Maybe THAT'S why you had so much pressure at the end. But you were indeed one of the most serious members and the whole staff wishes you luck in your future life. THANK A LOT!

Photo Editor: Rafael

Ramon, our precious Photo Editor. Did you really exist? We can't really remember. You really helped our editor by providing some really high-quality photographic equipment. Apart from that you really didn't do much except..... Oh yes. You did take SOME photos that were usable and also provided some great entertainment with the go-for. But don't expect too much praise this time. We couldn't think of much to say when we thought of what you had done.

Ads Layouter: Hayaki

You helped a lot in the beginning and the end. It was in the middle when there was a lot of work that you decided to goof off. But really, you mastered the job of ads layout and we all know that at least you're better than the OTHER layouter. As we saw by your 300 yen drinking tactics and your famous "fountain experiment", you are an extreme QUICK(?) worker. Thanks a lot for forwarding with us and good luck in Oregon.

Go-For: Kengo

Luckily, you were the only one wandering around the Forward room with no work. Why were you always fooling around in the darkroom with the photographer? What do you think this is, a massage parlor?! Don't distract the typist when she is hard at work. (Mirrors have other uses too, you know). And don't touch the literary editor in sensitive places. But, we must admit you did do a lot of hard work; you made a great photocopying editor. We all love you very much. Keep on partying and keep on smiling and good luck in the future.

Layouter: Francis

You were great man, just great. Not only did you screw up everything you started, but you thought it would be a nice idea if the other layouters could practice by redoing your foul-ups. How many layout sheets did you waste? How many snaps did you lose? Toward the end you impressed us all when we saw you in the Forward room after school, but that's only because you're so damn SLOW!! In the future, stay away from deskwork; you're allergic to it.

I owe a special thanks to....
